Fax number:	00 44-2075394299

Conclusion

It follows from the above that the CTM proprietor has not proven genuine use of the contested CTM for the following goods and services, for which the CTM must, therefore, be revoked:

Class 9: Musical audio-visual recordings; computer programs relating to music; educational computer programs; downloadable musical recordings; electronic publications;

Class 16: Printed publications; books, magazines, periodicals, manuals and catalogues; paper, pads and books for musical notations;

Class 41: Musical, educational and instructional services.

As the CTM proprietor has proven genuine use for all the other contested goods and services, the application is not successful in this respect.

According to Article 55(1) CTMR, the revocation will take effect from the date of the application for revocation, that is, as of 10/10/2012.
